

Christina Taylor — the singer-songwriter behind the hits “Settin’ Myself on Fire,” “That Girl,” “Loser” and many more — returns in 2021 with all new music for her fans around the world. Her latest single is “I Got That From You,” penned with hit songwriters Kelley Lovelace, (Brad Paisley, Carrie Underwood) and Lynn Hutton, (Jason Aldean, Eric Church).

Named an "artist to watch" by AXS, The Country Source, CMT and the UK's Your Life In A Song, Christina's passionate live performances and deep repertoire quickly earned industry notice. In 2019, she and two-time Juno-winner Brett Kissel scored a global hit with “As Good As You Look,” a song she co-wrote with Lovelace and Brent Anderson. While her intimate shows at The Listening Room, The Bluebird Cafe and The Analog are a staple on the Nashville scene, she plays huge venues as well, opening for artists such as Pitbull and Tim McGraw at Twin Cities Summer Jam. She has also been part of bills starring Keith Urban, Rascal Flatts, LoCash, Scottie McCreery and other headliners.
